RADY SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT

The Rady School of Management was founded in 2003, named after local businessman Ernest Rady thanks to a generous gift.

The Rady School of Management impacts the business community through cutting-edge research, top-quality student education, and centers of excellence that combine faculty expertise, practitioner knowledge, and experiential learning opportunities for students.

The Economics and Strategy group at Rady is focused on behavioral economics research. We combine basic research with applied work in areas such as incentive provision, health, education, and deception.

OUR AIM IS TO CONDUCT GROUNDBREAKING EXPERIMENTAL
RESEARCH ON HOW TO ADDRESS INEQUALITY IN SOCIETY.

FAIR is a Centre for Experimental Research on Fairness, Inequality, and Rationality. The Centre is comprised of three research groups; the Centre for Empirical Labor Economics (CELE), The Choice Lab (TCL), and Development Economics (DEV).

NHH Norwegian School of Economics is the host institution of the FAIR centre, and the centre was established as a Centre of Excellence in 2017 with funding from the Research Council of Norway.

FAIR has over 60 team members including the scientific coordination group, faculty, visiting professors, leading collaborators, PhD students, administrative staff, the FAIR Insight Team and affiliated researchers, in addition to many short and long-term guest researchers.
