

Position as student assistant

ENG10 ENGLISH FOR BUSINESS I

---

The Department of professional and intercultural communication (FSK) invites applicants for 1 student assistant position for the course ENG10 English for Business I, Autumn term 2021.

The course is taught in 3 parallel groups of approx. 40 students per group. In some weeks, there may be little need for the student assistants (there are 3 in all), while in other weeks, assistants may be needed for special activities in all groups. The course has a high degree of student activity, and tasks will include registering of attendance (compulsory for 75% of the course), monitoring group activities (e.g. class presentations and filmed mock business meetings), assessing and giving feedback on oral assignments, as well as providing administrative support to the lecturers. In case of digital teaching, student assistants may be required to assist the lecturer during class time.

The position is remunerated according to present standards, including compensation for preparation, presence in the classroom, and any follow-up.

The position requires excellent English language proficiency, both oral and written. A good command of Norwegian is useful.
