

Algorithms and Programming in a Business and Economics School

Lars Jaffke, University of Bergen

Abstract

In this talk, I will give a high-level introduction to my research in algorithms, and show how it can be applied to answer questions arising in business and economics contexts. I will then discuss how my background in algorithms and programming is relevant to teaching activities in the upcoming BEDS bachelor program at NHH.